To Whom It May Concern

We recommend Somali Roots NGO as a valuable partner and advocate for environmental conservation, sustainable development, and community resilience in Somalia with great confidence. The Ministry of Environment, Range, and Climate Change has closely followed Somali Roots NGO's work, and we are pleased to endorse their initiatives in reforestation, habitat restoration, and climate change adaptation.

Somali Roots NGO has demonstrated exceptional commitment to:

- Climate Resilience through Agroforestry: By promoting agroforestry practices, Somali Roots NGO integrates tree planting with agricultural activities, improving soil fertility, enhancing water retention, and increasing crop yields. These efforts strengthen climate resilience and provide sustainable livelihoods for local communities.
- Environmental Conservation and Restoration: Through tree planting campaigns, soil restoration, and sustainable land management practices, Somali Roots NGO actively contributes to combating desertification and enhancing ecosystem resilience.
- Capacity Building and Education: Their training programs and workshops empower farmers, youth, and community stakeholders to adopt environmentally friendly practices that improve livelihoods and strengthen climate resilience.

The organization's goals and vision align closely with the Puntland Ministry's mandate to address climate change, environmental justice, and the sustainable management of natural resources. Somali Roots NGO's innovative programs, advocacy efforts, and community-driven approach further reinforce their role as an essential partner in achieving Puntland's vision for a greener, more sustainable future.

We strongly recommend Somali Roots NGO for partnerships, funding opportunities, and any support that will enable them to expand their impact in environmental conservation and community development. Their expertise and dedication are critical to addressing the environmental challenges facing Puntland and Somalia at large.
